Delve into the wild wonders of Alaska with this exploration of Talkeetna and Denali. In the quaint community of Talkeetna, learn about the town's longstanding dogsledding legacy. Then, drive through Denali National Park in search of wildlife such as bear, moose and caribou, capping things off with a scenic rail journey south.

Highlights:

- In Talkeetna, gain insights into Alaska's iconic Iditarod and the sled dogs that run it
- Drive through the wilds of Denali National Park, keeping watch for bears, moose, caribou and Dall sheep
- Unwind with a scenic rail journey south from Denali to Talkeetna

DAY 1

Talkeetna, Alaska

Disembark in Seward and make the scenic drive north, stopping at the Alaskan Wildlife Center, a sanctuary for injured and orphaned animals and your first introduction to this state's extraordinary biodiversity. After lunch on your own, continue north toward Talkeetna, the starting point for climbers taking on the slopes of Denali. Check in to your hotel and reconvene for dinner this evening.
