The afternoon will be spent exploring the architectural and archaeological treasures of Angkor Wat, seat of the once-mighty Angkor Empire, which ruled over a vast area taking in what is now southern Vietnam, northwards to Yunnan in China, and west to the Bay of Bengal. Stroll about the mossy cobbled paths, steep narrow stairs, wide courtyards, and incense-fragranced shady halls of this massive temple complex with its famous carved towers. As the sun goes down, watch its rays dance off the bas-relief carvings while the chatter of monkeys reverberates around the temple walls.
